

Researchers share knowledge – a new offer from Life Science Zurich

We are looking for enthusiastic scientists for «Researchers share knowledge».

In the project, scientists from UZH and ETH give a virtual report on their research and/or their field of research in a short presentation and answer questions from interested persons. The lessons can be held virtually or in person (e.g. at schools or universities).

Target groups: Children (7 – 12 years), young people (13 – 18 years), adults

Duration: 45 min (1 lesson), usually 25-30 minutes presentation and 20-15 minutes questions and answers. Longer exchanges (e.g. double lessons) are also possible.

Organisation: School classes and other groups can register with Life Science Zurich with a topic request, and we will arrange the contact. "Researchers share knowledge" is an ongoing offer. You are welcome to let us know how often you are available for an exchange so that we can plan this and also whether you would prefer virtual lessons or in-person lessons (or both).

The topics offered are published as a list on our website.

Are you interested in participating? Then send an email with the following information to info@lifescience.uzh.ch:

- Research field / topic
- 5 - 10 keywords
- age group (schoolchildren 7-12 years, teenagers 13-18 years, adults)

We are looking forward to receiving your topics!
